Dr. Gibbons Defends Home Ec Attitude Toward Advertising

By Ed Murray.

Indicting the American Home Economics association as the most fanatical enemy of all advertising in this country and focusing the brunt of the accusation on the teachers of home economics in the schools and colleges, Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, associate editor of Woman's Home Companion, reported to the Advertising Club of New York that she met the bitterest antagonism to advertising during a recent three-month speaking tour.

In reference to several of Mrs. Richardson's statements on this subject as quoted in the April 6 issue of the Editor and Publisher, Dr. Rebecca M. Gibbons, associate professor of home economics, declared that Mrs. Richardson misrepresents the facts concerning the attitude of home economics teachers toward advertising and that several of Editor Richardson's condemnations are entirely unfair.

Dr. Gibbons stated pertinently at the beginning of the press interview, "Consumers get a dirty deal and we are interested in sending out educated consumers. The truth about foods pinches here and there and the Home Economics department is in a position to bear the weight of the dirty digs cast about by certain blatant advertising groups who are dissatisfied when the gullibility of their market is reduced by the circulation of the truth."

"Revision of election rules has put selection of Innocents on a merit, not political, basis," Johnson declared. "To be sure that a representative group is chosen, the Innocents urge that every junior and senior man vote in the election for the five men they think best fitted for the honor." Announcement of election results will be made shortly after spring vacation.

Voters must select five names from the lists which will be posted at the polls, as ballots with more or less names than five will be thrown out. Candidates must be or junior standing, satisfy regular eligibility requirements, and possess a 78 average.

Faculty Supervises Election. A faculty committee will supervise the election, one member being present at the polls at all times. Other methods of selection are included in the following by-laws, which were adopted by the society in its reorganization last year.

1. The membership shall consist of not more than twenty-five members elected at the polls.
2. A ballot shall be prepared from a list recommended by a faculty committee and approved by the Faculty Committee.
3. Members nominated by the Innocents Society and approved by the Faculty Committee.

"Blocks of seats will be reserved if requests are placed at the office of the dean of student affairs not later than Monday noon."

A tri-motored dove of peace flies over Stresa, Italy, tiny city on the island Isola Bella, where Benito Mussolini is entertaining other high power statesmen from England and France. But the pilots seem agreed they need a larger crew, which means they've agreed to invite Germany and perhaps Russia and Poland to come aboard at their next landing. Germany, on the other hand, has signified her willingness to help. There are those who doubt her sincerity.

At any rate Monday's League of Nations meeting may have a somewhat different attitude because Great Britain has been able to convince France that a spanking might not be what Germany needs. Hitler has eased the strain with an announcement that he is willing to help other European nations forestall war. And that may mean realization of Britain's hope for a unified European effort against resort to war.

FRENCH DEPARTMENT TO SHOW THIRD FILM

300 View Second Chapter of 'Les Miserables' Saturday.

So enthusiastically did the 300 students and Lincoln people receive the showing of the second chapter of the French movie, "Les Miserables," at the Stuart theater Saturday morning that the obtaining of the third and last chapter is practically assured, according to Prof. J. R. Wardsworth of the Romance language department.

In describing the film Prof. Harry Kurz declared that the second part was even more artistically presented than the first chapter which was shown in Lincoln, March 16. The acting and the scenery were superb. The entire film was more detailed and a more polished finished production than the majority of American movies, he believes.

The French department is so pleased with the response shown to "Les Miserables" that it is negotiating for an entire series of four films to be shown next year. Students will probably be able to buy season tickets for the presentations. Professors hope that the first film will be "Prenex Garde la Peupure," written in French by Fanchos. This play is taken from the English drama, "The Late Christopher Bean," by Sidney Cox Howards.

Prof. Wardsworth is responsible for bringing the films to Lincoln, and Thelma Goldstein had charge of the ticket sale.
